

Summer Civil Rights & Social Justice Training Institute

The National Equity Center, a non-partisan organization established to promote diversity and democratic values by cultivating, training and empowering a generation of citizens with the leadership, academic, research and advocacy skills necessary to eliminate existing local and national civil rights and social justice disparities is proud to offer an opportunity for high school and college students to participate in an all expense paid Summer Civil Rights & Social Justice Training Institute.

Twenty-five (25) high school students and fifty (50) college students from across the nation will be selected to partake in a civil rights and social justice orientated curriculum designed to equip them with the necessary skills to serve as National Equity Center Social Justice Ambassadors within their respective communities.

High School Students
Howard University, Washington, DC
July 9, 2006 - July 22, 2006

College Students
University of California, Los Angeles
July 2, 2006-July 29, 2006

Log on to the National Equity Center Web Site at www.nationalequitycenter.org

Click on the NEC Summer Civil Rights & Social Justice Training Institute link and follow the directions to download an application for high school and college students

Mail the completed application to:
The National Equity Center
Attn: Selection Committee
P.O. Box 1847
Washington, DC 20013

For questions regarding the application process, please contact
Dr. LaTonya Hampton at (410) 363-7555 or via email at lahampton@nationalequitycenter.org